Freedom is a thing that we all cherish. The introduction of the Declaration of Independence states in its preamble that all men are endowed by the creator with certain inalienable rights, one of which is liberty. It goes on to state that the colonies would now be considered free states. This simple statement began a bloody war that saw many young men die fighting for the freedom that piece of paper declared. Freedom often requires sacrifice.

God has called us into freedom through His word, freedom from sin and the oppression of the guilt of sin. He called us into his perfect law of liberty. Freedom came with a hefty price tag, the life of the Son of God. Then He asks us to live according to that law if we wish to enjoy the liberty it affords. The sum of the whole law is love. Love for God and love for your neighbor. When we refuse to act according to that love we destroy the church both from the inside and from the outside. Inside, we act unbecomingly toward one another and cause division and strife until the Lord's body cannot operate for all the internal fighting. From outside we are abusive and hateful, not showing love and pushing others away from Christ, so that the work of God is not done and the lost are neither sought nor enticed.

In light of the freedom God gives, we should show love in our lives. In order to fulfill the law of Christ, we need to love God enough to love his creation and do what is best for others. The best thing that can be done for someone outside of Christ is to show him Christ so that he has opportunity to come to him and be saved from his sins. Love God enough to show him to the world and fulfill the perfect law of liberty.
