Disappointment
by Mark Aites

“Sometimes when you get disappointment it makes you stronger.” – David Rudisha

Disappointment comes to all of us at one time or another. It is usually referred to as the “non-fulfillment of certain expectations.” How we deal with them says a lot about the kind of people that we are.

Many a parent has had the heartache and disappointment with their children seeing them leave the church. They scratch their heads and wonder where they went wrong? Being a free moral agent, sometimes children make poor choices. We can only hope that what the Proverb writer wrote comes to pass: “Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it” (Prov. 22:6).

There is also the danger of shielding our children from disappointment. It can really make life difficult as they get older, not knowing how to process such emotions. It can indeed make them anxious and feel like they are overwhelmed.

Disappointment certainly is not isolated to family. We may feel it more acutely when it is close to home, but we experience it quite often with our church family. For instance, we become frustrated and disappointed when we see long-time church members exhibiting a lack of spiritual growth. Such reminds us of the Hebrew writer, “For though by this time you ought to be teachers, you need someone to teach you again the first principles of the oracles of God; and you have come to need milk and not solid food” (Heb. 5:12). It is certainly not because we do not care that we find disappointment, but because we do!

Prayer and patience are a good combination when we are faced with disappointment. But in honesty, we are not very good with patience in such matters. Like the old adage: “Lord give me patience, and give it to me right now!”

Encourage Our Teachers

Teaching others Bible Truths is the greatest job in the world. It carries with it a heavy responsibility (James 3:1) and demands a great amount of work. This vital work of the church, when done correctly, is a true labor of love. Good teachers spend a great amount of time and energy in preparation of teaching and being careful to only teach the true Word of God (2 Timothy 2:15). They involve themselves physically, mentally, emotionally, and spiritually in their teaching in order to be Christ-like, to bring souls to Him and glory to God. Bible Class teachers are instructing those they teach with the doctrine of Christ. They help change lives and they strengthen the Church.

Too often, they labor tirelessly without being shown the proper appreciation for them and their work. Discouragement is sometimes a foe teachers will face. As members of the congregation, Bible Class teachers deserve our sincere gratitude and our frequently expressed appreciation for the work that they do. I urge you to pray for Bible teachers, and encourage Bible teachers often. May God bless faithful men and women who are gladly using their abilities in teaching Bible Classes.
